A school support assistant can be requested by a parent or guardian to help with homeschooling disabled children.

The following prerequisites are necessary:
The family must already have a permission to make use of a school support assistant, according to SGB VI and IX, in order to apply for the help.

Additionally, the school must declare that your child cannot be sufficiently supported in an emergency group or any other groups or work environments in school.

Wollino supplies families with a lunchbox for homeschooling. It costs 20 euros and is filled with fresh and tasty food for lunch at home.

If you are entitled to a BuT voucher, you can get the Wollino lunchbox for free.

The contents of the lunchbox are enough for one person and 5 days. They change on a weekly basis.

Ideas and suggestions for meals that can be prepared with the provided food are included.

Your child urgently needs help with learning at home?

If you're receiving BuT-aid from your jobcenter or the office of social affairs, you can apply for tutoring.

Call us! We'll gladly help you fill out the necessary paperwork.

In the meantime, until your application has been processed and approved, a volunteer school support assistant can assist your child.

Homeschooling is difficult at your place, because your children do not have their own quiet room with a desk?

In that case, you can apply for a so-called „co-working workspace“ for your child. If you apply for a reservation in advance, your child can use this workspace for 2,5 hours per day.

Individual workstations, as well as several offers for group learning and a digital platform for text chat, audio- or video chat are available.

All workstations are equipped with internet access, printer and/or copier access, provide a pleasant and quiet work environment and allow for pupils to get in contact with one another and exchange information.

These workspaces can be found at multiple different locations, such as the youth centres in Wolfsburg, the public libraries, the public spaces of the VfL Wolfsburg and other places of learning.

The institutions provide staff members who are always available to help with any questions or problems.
